This is where I will describe what I have done for each learning outcome.

To stay in line with the theme of a retro operating system, it will be done inside a Notepad text file. As seen above, ascii art will be used for headers, in order to prevent the layout from becoming boring with just plain text while still staying in line with the theme. To separate elements I can use plain text lines.

Above you can see how images will be integrated into the text document layout. They will be styled as an expandable attachment, that will open in an image viewer when clicked.
